THE WEATHER.

The daily record of the thermometer in this city for yesterday, as reported by C. W. Brandon, druggist, was as follows: 7 a. m., 38 degrees above; 12 m., 46 degrees above; 4 p. m., 43 degrees above; 8 p. m., 37 degrees above.

ABOUT THE CITY.

John J. Allan had one of his toes amputated at St. Ann's hospital yesterday. Drs. St. Jean and McKenzie performed the operation.

Deputy Sheriff Hankley of Silver Bow was in Anaconda yesterday, presumably on official business. He was mum as an oyster, however.

George Elston is reorganizing the life and drum corps. He wants four men who can play the life to join his happy band. No reasonable offer refused.

Married at Anaconda, Feb. 10, 1892, at the residence of Mrs. Kenapt, by Rev. William Clyde, William R. Hodshire of Anaconda and Mamie R. Goetz of Cheyenne, Wyo.

The notorious Annie Kelly was run in for being drunk and naughty. For the next 30 days she will be a resident of Deer Lodge, where she will be given an excellent opportunity to sober up.

Chief of Police Pickel stole a march on his friends in this city by getting married without letting them know anything about it. He was married to Mrs. Isgrig of Cedar street. Rev. Father De Siero performed the ceremony.

There will be an open meeting of Silver council, No. 124, Y. M. I., Wednesday evening next. An interesting programme has been prepared. There will be speeches by men who know how to talk, a debate by those who can argue, songs, recitations and instrumental music.

William Man thought he needed some carpenter's tools in his business and got them by breaking into a tool chest belonging to Jack Langington. The villain was discovered and was pursued by Officer Stebbins, who took him to the city jail. William will be given an opportunity today to make his peace with the law.

Dick Lacourse, the pedestrian, came down from Butte last night to see some of his friends before he risks his life in the six-day race which he will engage in at Butte next week. He says there will be a large number of good men in the contest and that he will bet money that he will win it.

Monday evening the bright and pretty operetta "Bo-Peep" will be presented at Evans opera house. The performance will be given by local talent. Miss Rosenfield will direct the music. The children have been working indefatigably for some time past to make this affair a success. They should meet with liberal patronage.

A. D. Tompkins, San Francisco; J. H. Williams, San Francisco; R. W. Foster, St. Paul; William Touby, Butte; D. J. Hennessy, Butte; D. L. Follup, Salt Lake; F. E. Mayall, Boston; H. Brandt, St. Paul; Paul C. W. New York; H. T. Pusey, St. Paul; C. W. Munsell, Tacoma; G. M. Scott, Chicago; P. J. Brophy, Butte; J. H. Roach, St. Paul; W. E. Norris, Helena; George McCoy, Napa, Mich.; were registered at the Montana yesterday.

Dan'l Sully, an actor of acknowledged ability in his own line of Celtic impersonation, comes to Evans opera house tomorrow evening as James O'Brien, the hero of "The Millionaire." He was seen here last season in this character, and his performance was duly praised at that time, when it was pointed out the play possessed considerable intrinsic interest, independent of Mr. Sully's individual work, which is in his best vein. O'Brien, it may be remembered, is an American citizen of Irish birth, who triumphs over all sorts of villainy in a way that always enlists the sympathy of the audience. The supporting company is thoroughly adequate and does justice to the dramatic and comedy scenes alike.

BASE BALL TALK.

There should be a League in Montana This Year.

The article on base ball which recently appeared in the STANDARD seems to have attracted the attention of at least a few of the "fans," and this is just what was intended. The sooner an interest in the matter is awakened just that much sooner admirers of the game will have the pleasure of patronizing a better class of ball playing. What is needed next year is a systematic organization of the several teams in the state, if for no other reason than to make it possible to determine which is the superior club. In short, Montana needs a league or an association, and the proper time to create it is now. Should it prove nothing more than a schedule or series of a few games there is need of organization.

No doubt the proposition will meet with some opposition. The old fog is not extinct, and almost every new enterprise encounters at least a few obstacles. In order that the success of the scheme may be doubly insured, it would be well for those interested to remember that they should not become too enthusiastic and imagine that they will be able to supply the demand with that class of sport enjoyed by those east of us. A gentleman recently offered a good suggestion when he remarked to a STANDARD reporter not long since that "we are not yet ready for professional base ball." This is the most sensible view of the matter. Every manager, player or admirer of the game who has had the least experience will agree with it. Whenever it becomes evident that this section is able to support the professional article, some one will discover the opportunity and take speedy advantage of it.

While it is a fact that light gate receipts and heavy traveling expenses alone would make a salary list an impossibility, it is also very evident that with slight effort, a much higher grade of the sport could be produced than that which has been offered to the public in the past. When patrons and players are brought to recognize the fact that they have some official means of settling the question of supremacy, the national game will not only increase tenfold in popularity, but will also become the recognized favorite among wholesome outdoor sports among Montanians.

James Borden, who did such able work for Missoula in the capacity of catcher, is receiving the delivery of the famous Silver King, in practice, so says the Sunday Review.

Tom Turner, familiarly known as "Old Boss," and "Kid" Baskin will leave Spokane shortly. Both will probably wear Milwaukee uniforms next season.

Woodworth, the old time second baseman of the Helenas, is now employed as freight conductor on the Northern Pacific between Livingston and Billings. Some of the cranks would gladly welcome "Woody" on the diamond again.

There is some dispute as to who is the best batter in the state. A great many claim that Harpster of Missoula deserves the honor, while others seem to think that J. Moffett of Butte or Bozeman should be recognized as the champion. Being without any official statistics it is impossible to determine which of the two led the batting average last year. Early of Bozeman is conceded the best base runner in the state.

The Northern Pacific could easily get a strong team together, composed entirely of its employees, by selecting the men from its four western divisions, viz, Montana, Rocky Mountain, Idaho and Cascade. A team composed of Wallace, Martin, Moore, Harpster, Harkness, O'Brien, McGrade, Jackson, Schupert and Colgan would prove a winner almost anywhere.

BLAVATSKY'S SUCCESSOR.

She Appointed a Philadelphian—Proved By the Picture Trick.

From the Philadelphia Times.
Mr. Perry relates what is known among theosophists, that not long before her death Mme. Blavatsky appointed as her successor in the work of which she had been so long the acknowledged head Henry B. Foulke of Philadelphia. Mr. Foulke for many years has been a student of theosophy and a traveler in Europe and India in search of the knowledge of occult truths. Mme. Blavatsky promised him the approval and guidance of the mysterious powers who had directed her own work on earth, assuring him also of her personal cooperation from the unseen realm.

Mr. Foulke, as the condition of his acceptance of this appointment, required unquestionable manifestations of the power of Mme. Blavatsky to fulfill her promises. He requested that her master should precipitate her portrait upon canvas, indicating also his own propinquity, after the manner which theosophists claim often to have witnessed.

In the parlors of Mme. Eugenie Beste, the Philadelphia psychic through whose occult powers many pictures of the departed are said to have been made, Mr. Perry declares that he witnessed the fulfillment of Mr. Foulke's demands. Several canvases had been for some time prepared and waiting for the desired precipitation, but without result. Mr. Foulke and George Foulkenstein, now president of the German Theosophical society of Philadelphia, had been watching for the expected manifestation, but had gone away unsatisfied.

When Mr. Perry entered Mme. Beste's parlors she showed him three canvases, which had nothing on them. He placed them on a chair with the face side to the wall. The canvases were put in a partially curtained, yet clearly lighted part of the room, where every article of furniture could be distinctly seen. Soon there was a smell of paint. Mme. Beste observed that the forces were at work. After waiting in silence for perhaps five minutes, Mr. Perry examined the canvases and upon one of them found a correct and beautiful portrait of Mme. Blavatsky. It was recognized by Mrs. Kase, who had known her for more than 20 years. During the time of the supposed making of the portrait Mme. Beste had not been once within 10 feet of the canvas, and it was impossible that she could have placed anything upon it.

The next morning, according to Mr. Perry, while he, Mme. Beste and Mrs. Kase were looking at the portrait, they saw in the upper left-hand corner of the background the gradual appearance of a face and head and finally a clean-cut figure. "There was the white-robed form of Mme. Blavatsky, sitting," says Mr. Perry, "with an expression of quiet repose upon her countenance and her marvelously beautiful hands gracefully folded. Upon the window still sits a Hindoo idol, an exact picture of one belonging to Mr. Foulke, which was taken by him to England some years ago and loaned to the madame. Below the window are shelves containing books with the initials I. U. and S. D., no doubt intended to refer to the volumes she has written, 'Isis Unveiled' and 'Secret Doctrine'."

Significance of Facial Wrinkles.
From the Yonkers Blade.

Wrinkles are not entirely the marks of time, but they are often the unmistakable outward signs of our inward nature. An habitual laughter will have wrinkles earlier than those with grave, sedate faces. Indigestion will produce crow's feet in children, and a little worry through life will make an habitual frown develop into tiny wrinkles between the eyes. But an habitual grin or laugh on the face produces wrinkles more than sickness or disease. The invalid of many years will often have a perfectly smooth face, unmarked by wrinkles. This is due partly to the fact that her melancholy life prevents her from laughing much, and no creases are made in her immobile face. Wrinkles are often expressive of an inward character which gives true dignity to the face, which is far more to be desired than the perfectly smooth, expressionless face. The wrinkles which come from care, trouble and irritation are the only ones which mar the face without giving any compensating value. They should be avoided by every woman, for it makes her old before her time and robs her of her beauty. The way not to have such creases is not to think of trouble, but to look on the sunny side of life.
